Decoder, Encoder, Decoding Method, And Encoding Method

ABSTRACT

A decoder includes: circuitry; and a memory connected to the circuitry, in which the circuitry, in operation, decodes, from a bitstream, an image and an identifier associated with the image, the identifier indicating at least one of (i) the image being suitable for task processing corresponding to the identifier and (ii) the image being not suitable for the task processing.

Figure 1