ABSTRACT

Integrated Circuit stress control system

An integrated circuit stress control system is provided. A gate is formed on a substrate and a channel is formed in the substrate. A source/drain is formed around the gate. A shallow trench isolation is formed in the substrate, the shallow trench isolation producing strain on the channel. A stress suppressing feature is formed in the substrate.

Figure 1