[Abstract]

The present disclosure discloses a technical spirit including a terminal unit which requests and acquires information corresponding to a predetermined criterion to provide a predetermined life support service; and a service control unit which networks with an external server, receives information corresponding to the predetermined criterion from the terminal unit, and provides a predetermined life support service for a residence service, a mobile service, and a visa service to a user according to information corresponding to the predetermined criterion.