ABSTRACT

METHOD FOR MODULATING INFLAMMASOME ACTIVITY AND INFLAMMATION IN THE LUNG

The present invention provides compositions and methods for reducing inflammation in the lungs of a mammal that is afflicted by a condition that leads to inflammation in the lungs. The compositions and methods described herein include agents that inhibit inflammasome signaling in the mammal such as antibodies directed against inflammasome components used alone or in combination with extracellular vesicle uptake inhibitor(s).

Fig. 7A