ABSTRACT

A food container assembly comprising a container component, a mechanically securable snap-fit lid with an aperture dividing it into flap portions that can seal around an inserted object, and to allow a child's hand through to extract food from the container component while preventing accidental spillage.

Fig. 1