MODULAR FRAME SYSTEM

A modular and reconfigurable frame system including a plurality of vertical supports, a plurality of horizontal support spines, a plurality of brackets for fastening the vertical supports to the horizontal support spines by a joint fastening means. The frame system is extended by use of further support spines fastened by joint fastening means to the vertical supports or by a ‘twist and lock’ fastening means to the support spines.