ABSTRACT

Provided are an image processing method and apparatus, a terminal device, a server and a system. The method comprises: processing a first image to obtain a first human face in the first image; determining whether there is a human body matching the first human face in at least one human body corresponding to the first image; and according to the result of the determination, sending a first person recognition request message to a server.

[Figure 2]