Single-Use Products with Obvious Identification Mark

ABSTRACT

An obvious identification is attached to the each bottled water or other single-use products. The identification mark is very simple, obvious and unique among a group or within a certain range. For example, using the color, shape (animal), Arabic numeral or a letter together to generate unique marks can meet general requirement. The mark can be printed on the cap of bottled water or printed on the label of bottled water. Another solution is printing identification mark as the sticker. The sticker can be pasted during manufacturing. Or the stickers are distributed during using.
