ABSTRACT

A method for reporting a buffer status report (BSR) is performed by a terminal. The method includes: sending a BSR including assistance information to an access network device, wherein the assistance information assists the access network device in performing data scheduling of a predefined service.

FIG.2