PRODUCTION OF ENCAPSULATED NANOPARTICLES AT COMMERCIAL SCALE

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to methods for producing particles of a biologically active material using dry milling processes as well as compositions comprising such materials, medicaments produced using said biologically active materials in particulate form and/or compositions, and to methods of treatment of an animal, including man, using a therapeutically effective amount of said biologically active materials administered by way of said medicaments.

[No Figure]