METHOD AND DEVICE FOR TRANSMITTING DATA

ABSTRACT

The embodiments of the present application provide a method and device for transmitting data, said method includes: sending, by a first device using a first transmission mode, first data to a second device, the first data being autonomously sent by the first device; and performing, by the first device using a second transmission mode, retransmission of all or part of the first data, the second transmission mode being different from the first transmission mode.

(FIG. 2)