METHOD FOR IDENTIFYING CHARACTERISTICS OF CONTACT LENSES

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Contact lenses include a posterior surface including a first identifiable marking, and an anterior surface includes a second identifiable marking different from the first marking, the first and second markings in combination designating the optical correction of the lenses. The lenses are useful in methods where the markings are used to identify characteristics of the lens.

Fig. 1

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

THIS SHEET HAS BEEN REPLACED