ABSTRACT

The embodiments of the disclosure relate to methods, apparatuses, devices and storage media for sharing content or viewing content. The method for viewing content provided herein includes: receiving a content viewing request; and presenting a content interface associated with a first user, the content interface presenting work content generated based on a sharing request by the first user for a selected set of messages in a message presentation interface.