Abstract

This invention discloses a secure grip intended for use for security. The product can be adjusted to seal a wide range of applications including: tote boxes, ATM cassettes, money bags and etc. It is made of polypropylene and features an integral locking metal through which the thin tail is inserted and pulled, but it is highly impossible to pull out after it is tightly gripped. For security and tracking purpose, the flag can be heat-stamped with company logo along with consecutive numbers.

162162

G00001