

ABSTRACT

When conveying a rolling bearing from a ball collection operation position 5 to a block division operation position or/and when conveying the rolling bearing from the block division operation position to an equal distribution operation position, a positional misalignment prevention member is inserted into a circumferential gap existing between rolling elements, so that the rolling elements are prevented from rolling and being thus dispersedly scattered and positionally 10 misaligned.