ABSTRACT

The present invention provides glycan-interacting antibodies and methods for producing glycan-interacting antibodies useful in the treatment and prevention of human disease, including cancer. Such glycan-interacting antibodies include humanized antibodies, derivatives and fragments thereof as well as related compositions and kits. Methods of using glycan-interacting antibodies for treatment and diagnosis are included.

[Fig. 1A]