MODULAR & SCALABLE INTRA-METAL CAPACITORS

ABSTRACT

An intra-metal capacitor unit cell comprises a first electrode and a second electrode formed in the same device layer. A dielectric layer separates the electrodes. The first electrode is substantially surrounded by the second electrode. Misalignment between the first and second electrodes does not substantively alter the capacitance of the unit cell.

Fig. 1