ABSTRACT

An auxiliary information sending method is applicable to first user equipment (UE), and includes: sending first auxiliary information to second user equipment (UE), wherein the first auxiliary information indicates to the second UE first system information required by the first UE.

Fig. 1