ABSTRACT

Process for the Preparation of Polycarbonate by the Melt Transesterification Method

The invention relates to a process for the preparation of polycarbonate by the melt transesterification method, polycarbonate having a small buildup of electrostatic charge and obtainable by this process and shaped articles or extrudates, in particular optical data stores or diffuser discs, comprising this polycarbonate.

Figure: None