

ABSTRACT

OPERATION MANAGEMENT METHOD, OPERATION MANAGEMENT APPARATUS, AND OPERATION MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

An operation management method performed by a computer, the method including: acquiring requests from a plurality of users for boarding and alighting including a departure location and a destination; associating each request with a vehicle corresponding to the departure location and the destination; setting, for each of the requests, a boarding/alighting point within a predetermined range including the departure location and within a predetermined range including the destination, respectively; generating a plurality of paths that pass through the boarding/alighting points; and selecting an operation path of the vehicle from the plurality of paths.

FIG. 12