ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to the field of chemistry and more particularly to that of therapeutic chemistry.

The invention relates more particularly to novel contraceptive compositions formed from a progestative agent and an oestrogen.

The invention relates specifically to novel pharmaceutical contraceptive compositions, characterized in that they contain, as active principles, a nomegestrol ester and oestradiol, in combination or as a mixture with an inert, non-toxic, pharmaceutically acceptable vehicle which is suitable for oral administration

162162

G00002