

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a resource selection method, a terminal, and a network-side device, and relates to the field of communications technologies. The resource selection method is applied to a terminal and includes: obtaining configuration information of a sensing window in a partial sensing mechanism; performing monitoring in the sensing window indicated by the configuration information to obtain a monitoring result; and obtaining a selectable resource set based on the monitoring result.

Figure 4 accompanies.