

ABSTRACT

Method for preparing surfaces

5

The invention relates to a new surface preparation method using a combination of at least two polymers, which are different or not, which are grafted hierarchically or multiply on a surface, and also to the use of this new 10 preparation method, more particularly in applications for controlling the surface energy of a substrate. The invention may allow a block polymer to be structured with a minimum of defects.

15 No suitable figure