(54) Title: METHOD AND SYSTEM FOR PROVIDING VIRTUAL SERVICES

(57) Abstract: A technique is provided for providing virtual services. The technique includes generating a virtual environment for a service provider offering a plurality of services. The generated virtual environment comprises a plurality of conversational prompts and a plurality of user interface (UI) objects to be rendered to a user. The technique further includes receiving one or more inputs from the user in response to the rendered plurality of conversational prompts and the plurality of UI objects. The technique further includes determining one or more services desired by the user based on a processing of the received one or more inputs. The technique further includes providing the desired one or more services to the user based on the determination.
