

Abstract:

The invention relates to a method of hormonal female controlled “on demand” contraception, in which a pharmaceutical preparation comprising a COX inhibitor and levonorgestrel is taken on demand prior to expected sexual intercourse. Further subjects
5 of the invention relate to pharmaceutical compositions and application regimes for “on demand” contraception.