

ABSTRACT

Provided in the embodiments of the present application are an information transmission method and apparatus, and a communication device, the method comprising: after a first base station receives an RRC recovery request message sent by
5 a terminal, sending a request message asking for terminal context to a second base station; the first base station receiving a failure message for asking for terminal context that is sent by the second base station, the failure message for asking for terminal context comprising an RRC release message and associated information of the RRC release message, wherein the associated information of the RRC release message
10 comprises transmission information and/or security information; on the basis of the associated information of the RRC release message, the first base station sending the RRC release message to the terminal.

(FIG. 3)