

ABSTRACT

Embodiments of the present disclosure provide a method for processing information and apparatus, a communication device, and a storage medium. The method for processing information, executed by a network device, further comprises: sending configuration information, wherein the configuration information is used for a terminal to send uplink (UL) jitter information.

Fig. 2A