

ADDRESSABLE LED ARCHITECTUREABSTRACT

The present invention provides an addressable light emitting diodes (LED) architecture that is able to control a plurality of LEDs individually. The present invention further provides a method of controlling the operation of at least one chain of serially connected LEDs.

FIG. 2 accompanies the Abstract.