

ABSTRACT

A CONTAINER

To present a container especially ideal for aircraft which has sufficient strength and rigidity as a container lighter in weight and can be manufactured and assembled spending far less time and cost.

A container with side walls, a roof and a base, wherein at least at least side walls are made of FRP and wherein adjacent two sides of the above plates, are constituted of an integrally formed continuous FRP panel.

FIGURE 1