

ABSTRACT

Embodiments of the disclosure provide a method and a device for creating multimedia content, and a storage medium. The method includes: receiving a keyword query request transmitted from a creator client by a server; obtaining a recommended keyword according to the keyword query request, and transmitting the recommended keyword to the creator client; and receiving first multimedia content created and uploaded by the creator client according to the recommended keyword.