

ABSTRACT

Provided are a mobile station device and a channel estimation method for estimating a beam forming pattern applied in transmission beam forming processing through a forward link, thereby using a channel estimation technology having a better performance, and a control program therefor. The provided mobile station device, the channel estimation method, and the control program involve performing channel estimation processing in wireless frequency transmission through the forward link of the transmission beam forming.