

ABSTRACT

Disclosed are an interaction method and apparatus, electronic device and storage medium. The method includes: receiving a first message from a client; based on indication content included in the first message, obtaining driving data matching the indication content; and controlling a display interface of client to play a response animation of an interactive object by using the driving data.

[Fig. 1]