

Abstract

Process for the preparation of polyether-ester polyols

The present invention provides a process for the preparation of polyols based on fatty acid esters and starter compounds having zerewitinoff-active hydrogen atoms and the use thereof for the preparation of polyurethane materials.

Figure (None)