

ABSTRACT

Electronic labels consist of an electronic chip (4) and an antenna (3) assembled on a flexible support (2). The electronic chip (4) needs a rigid zone in order to not be damaged. This is why it is generally covered with a resin that makes this rigid region bigger. In order to reduce this zone the resin that covers the chip is suppressed and replaced with a protection (5) ensured by a rigid element added to the flexible support (2).

162162

G00002