

Shell catalyst for producing alkenyl carboxylic acid esters having an improved Pd and Au distribution

Abstract

The present invention relates to a Pd- and Au-containing shell catalyst which is characterised by an improved Pd and Au distribution. The invention also relates to two methods for producing said catalyst and to a method for producing vinyl acetate monomer using said catalyst.

[Fig .1]