

Abstract of the disclosure

For each weaving machine, there is generated at a spacing from the warp thereof at least one conditioning air stream directed towards the latter, the conditioning air being transported in a downwardly directed piston-type displacement flow to the warp threads.

(Fig. 1)

---

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

