

【Abstract】

A carbon dioxide capture system for a ship according to the present invention includes: a carbon dioxide capture device that removes carbon dioxide contained in exhaust gas of a main engine, a low-temperature steam generator that exchanges heat with exhaust gas of an auxiliary engine to generate steam, and a low-temperature steam supply line that supplies the steam generated from the low-temperature steam generator to the carbon dioxide capture device.