Abstract

Communication Method, Terminal Apparatus, and Access Network Apparatus

Embodiments of the present application provide a communication method, a terminal device, and an access network device, which may determine a paging type of a received message. The method includes: the terminal device receives a first message sent by an access network device; and the terminal device determines a paging type according to the first message.

FIG. 2