

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A renewable material traceability system acquires information on a renewable material provided by a provider and information on the provider, allocates a lot of the renewable material to a product in a production process of the product, and notifies the provider of evaluation data obtained based on data associated with the provider from among a traceability data group, the evaluation data being data as an evaluation related to the provision by the provider, the traceability data group including material traceability data, which is data including a set of information on the renewable material and information on the provider, and production traceability data, which is data including information indicating a lot allocated to each product for each of one or more types of renewable materials used as materials for the product.

FIG . 1