TISSUE PROTECTIVE PEPTIDES AND PEPTIDE ANALOGS FOR PREVENTING AND TREATING DISEASES AND DISORDERS ASSOCIATED WITH TISSUE DAMAGE

The present invention provides peptides and peptide analogs that have tissue protective activities while having little or no potentially undesirable hematopoietic effects. The peptides and peptide analogs are useful in preventing and treating a variety of diseases and disorders associated with tissue damage.

Fig. 1