

Abstract

Metallic surfaces are prepared to receive ceramic coatings. An abrasion process of progressively declining intensity removes a portion of the metallic surface. Ceramic coating applied 5 to surfaces so prepared display improved lives at elevated temperatures.