(54) Title: CONTEXTUALLY ADAPTIVE WEB BROWSER

(57) Abstract: A web browser's layout (250), available features and tools are adapted to the instantaneous environment, without the use of downloadable, up-loadable or resident programs, plug-ins or agents. The browser itself is tailored to the context in which it is being used, to provide for different functionalities in the browser tool bar, the functionality changing in association with different data such as a web page requested, web page content, the user demographic classification age, location, or any other characteristic known or inferred by such provider. This mutation occurs according to factors preset by the user (200) or pushed by the provider (210) or a third party authorized by a service (230) or content provider (240).
