

ABSTRACTCEILING FAN

- 5 A ceiling fan which comprises: a connecting unit configured to attach a fan housing (1) to ceiling; a motor (15) being accommodated in the housing (1); a plurality of blades (5) extending radially from periphery of the motor (15), capable of being rotated by the motor (15); a cover (6), being one-piece and attached to bottom of the housing (1); and a receiver being
- 10 disposed adjacent the cover (6), for receiving a control signal; wherein one portion (18) of the cover is thinner than the remaining portion of the cover (6), such that the signal is capable of passing through and reaching the receiver. Preferably, the cover (6) is translucent.

(Fig. 3)