

METHOD FOR PRODUCING FRESH WATER

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method for producing fresh water, the method including feeding raw water to a semipermeable membrane to obtain fresh
5 water, in which water having a solute concentration different from that of the raw water is fed and mixed with the raw water according to changes of a flow rate of fresh water of the semipermeable membrane unit and/or operating pressure of the semipermeable membrane unit.

FIGURE 1