

ABSTRACT

The invention provides a structure of a propeller ship which can achieve improvement of fuel consumption, and enlarge an amount of cargo per ship total length. Rudders 12 are provided at laterally symmetrical positions of a ship center line in a front side of a propeller 11 and in a rear side of a buttock line.

Fig. 1