

ABSTRACT

INFORMATION TRANSCEIVING METHOD, DEVICE AND STORAGE MEDIUM

This disclosure provides an information transmitting method, an information receiving method, a device, and a storage medium. The information transmitting method includes: a user equipment (UE) reports first information, the first information being information related to fast master cell group link recovery. The information receiving method includes: a base station receives the first information reported by the UE; the base station configures the fast master cell group link recovery based on the first information. (Figure. 1)