A COOLING DEVICE, AN ASSEMBLY, AND METHODS FOR LOWERING TEMPERATURE IN A CHEMICAL REACTION

Abstract

Embodiments provide a cooling device. The cooling device comprises a container configured as a heat sink. The container is at least partially made from heat conducting material. The cooling device further comprises endothermic chemical material which is contained in the container.

FIG. 2 (a)