

METHOD FOR PRODUCING POLYETHER CARBONATE POLYOLS

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method for producing polyether carbonate polyols by way of the catalytic addition of carbon dioxide and alkylene oxides to H-functional starter compounds in the presence of double metal cyanide (DMC) catalyser that was activated in the presence of cyclic anhydride.