

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a chemical mechanical polishing solution for polishing amorphous carbon materials. The chemical mechanical polishing solution in the present invention includes abrasive particles, a compound containing a carboxyl group and a compound containing two or more hydroxyl groups. The chemical-mechanical polishing solution in the present invention has a high removal rate of amorphous carbon materials and has good market prospects.

(No Figure)