

Abstract

A wall protection coating composition comprising of a liquid mixture which comprises at least one gluten-containing flour, at least one gluten-free flour and water is described. A method of providing temporary protection to a surface is also described. The coating composition can be used to protect a surface, in particular a metal or painted surface, from deterioration due to environmental and weather conditions.

(No Figure)